Rep's Committee Appointments Will Promote Exchange of Ideas

Representative Gregory E. Pitoniak (D-Taylor) has been named as a member of both the Science, Energy and Environmental Resources Committee and the Energy Committee of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL).

The Science, Energy and Environmental Resources Committee is one of 11 standing committees and two task forces of the NCSL's Assembly on the Legislature (AOL), which serves as a forum for the exchange of ideas and information among state legislatures. Issues high on the Committee's agenda this year include implementation of energy policy and Clean Air Acts, science and technology information in state legislatures, and wetlands.

The Energy Committee is one of 12 standing committees of the NCSL's State-Federal Assembly (SFA), NCSL's policy-making body. The Committee will meet with Federal officials and develop recommendations on a wide range of National issues that affect state-Federal relations. The Federal energy bill regulations are a high priority for the Committee.

"As a member of these committees, I will be able to share information and exchange ideas on a wide variety of issues, and also voice concerns specific to Michigan as well as the concerns of state legislators Nationally," Pitoniak said. "I am very pleased to have the opportunity to serve on both NCSL committees and I look forward to working on critical state-Federal issues with my colleagues from throughout the Country."

Pitoniak, who is from Taylor, represents the State's 22nd District, which includes the cities of Romulus and Taylor.

NCSL represents the legislators and staffs of the Nation's 50 states, its commonwealths, and its territories. NCSL has three basic objectives: to improve the quality and effectiveness of state legislatures; to foster communication and cooperation; and to assure state legislatures a strong, cohesive voice in the Federal system. □

Tornado Sirens To Sound

By Margaret A. Leduc, Coordinator, Emergency Management Office, City of Romulus

Tornado sirens will be sounded in Romulus at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, March 31, and 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 3.

At this time, the City will be conducting a test of the cable system for the emergency broadcast system. All Romulus televisions with cable service will switch for 15 seconds to the government station for an emergency testing message.

In the event of an actual emergency, the government station would broadcast a message to indicate what measures citizens should take.

Romulus residents are urged to learn the difference between a tornado watch and a tornado warning.

A tornado watch is a period of time during which emergency spokespersons keep the public updated on the path of storms that could contain tornadoes. During these times, residents should secure outdoor items such as garbage cans and bicycles by placing them inside a building so that they do not become deadly missiles during high-wind periods.

The public should also keep children under close supervision during such tornado watch periods, and should stay close to a radio or television for updated information on the storm.

A tornado or severe storm warning is issued when a storm has already been sighted in the area. Warnings are for much smaller geographical areas, and persons in those areas should seek shelter immediately.

In homes, parents should gather the family and seek safety in the basement away from any windows. If no basement is available, residents are urged to move to the center of the house, into closets, or under heavy furniture.

In mobile-home areas, residents should move to a prearranged shelter area.

When driving a car, stop the vehicle; don't try to outrun a tornado. Leave vehicle and seek safety in a basement, ditch, or ravine away from the car and trees.

After the storm passes, check out the building or vehicle for damage – particularly electrical or gas-line damage.

Stay out of damaged buildings until they are deemed safe. Check any food closely for particles of glass or debris before eating.

More home safety tips are available at City Hall and the Library. □

There's No "Chill" in Their Chili: LeCesne, Freshmen Win Cook-off's "Spicy" Division

The Lighter Slice

A New Age of Magazines

By Tom Shamanski

Browsing through my favorite bookstore recently, I concluded that there's not a thing we eat, nor a way we amuse, divert, or "recreate" ourselves, that isn't probed, examined, or dissected by a specialty magazine. Folks, it doesn't matter where your interests lie, or how unusual they may be; there's a magazine out there just for you.

Somewhere (probably in Magazines Now), I read that only 20% of these specialty magazines survive for four years. So, publishers are really bucking some industrial-sized odds, here . . . but the potential down-the-line profits must be enormous, 'cause they sure keep on trying!

You know the type of magazines I'm talking about, I'm sure. If you're a runner or jogger, or even think that you are, there's Runner's World—among a host of others—for you to run out and buy. Running a bit too much? No problem: Walk five or six miles to the bookstore and stroll away with Walking magazine. Or, if knowing how your day/month/year (pick one) will turn out is your cup of tea leaves, Horoscope will leave you starry-eyed.

Then, there's Cat Fancy for those who, well, fancy cats! I've plopped down an occasional dollar or two for a magazine called The Writer. Strangely enough, I know of nothing titled for readers except, of course, The Weekly Reader, an all-time grade-school goodie. (I used to love Tuesday afternoons when Miss Allen—my first true love—passed out the Readers.)

New Age is a magazine targeted, I suppose, for folks who consider themselves new-agers. Now, I know of the Stone Age, the Ice Age, and even the Age of Aquarius, but I haven't the foggiest notion what New Age is about (although I like the music played on new-age radio stations, and I would, indeed, like a new age . . . 25 would be nice). But, overall, I don't think that New Age is for me. When Middle Age hits the stands, I'll give that a quick browse.

There were three magazines that were first editions, according to the bookstore clerk.

One was Toenails Today, edited by the little Piggy who went into marketing. TT contained several interesting articles, as well as a thumbnail sketch of one Dr. Stanley Stubbed, generally recognized as podiatry's leading toenail expert. However, for me, folks, the most fascinating feature in TT was a contest to determine which of its readers has the largest toenail area on his or her left foot (square centimeters, clipped). Prizes ranged from a toeless pair of see-through motorcycle boots to 5x7" glossies of some of Dr. Stubbed's most spectacular cases of chronic, acute ingrowns . . . some with underlying fungus!

Whiner's Weekly, edited by coffee mogul Linda Ellerbee, was another new entry. WW profiled a few more heroic whiners of our time, notably Morton Downey, Jr., Andy Rooney, my kids, and my sister and her dog. One article gave tips on what to do if you're whining and no one is listening. A suggestion here was to make a tape recording of your whines, then play them back during a more receptive time. Another tip was to slowly stalk the disinterested individual and suddenly jump on his or her toenails, yelling, "LISTEN, CHUMP!" Sounds like that might work.

Rounding out these first-time magazine offerings was Beautiful Farming People. I didn't get too far into that one, as the centerfold featured a tuxedoed farmer (no stubble, even) and his elegantly attired wife (country-blue cocktail dress, single strand of pearls), lovingly posed on their freshly scrubbed Massey-Ferguson tractor. The thought of these folks growing beans, carrots, peas, and such—for me to buy and eat—was a bit too much.

Shelving BFP, I began searching for Creative Couch Potatoing. □

Here's What's Happening

Local Entertainers Sought

The Romulus Arts Council is looking for local entertainers to perform at single-engagement shows to be held this summer at the new Historic Park in Downtown Romulus. Interested persons or groups from all musical fields (country-western, oldies, pop/rock, gospel, etc.) are asked to contact Gloria Chandler at 941-2678.

Food Vendors Needed for Arts Fair

At this time, the Romulus Arts Council is also seeking food vendors who would be interested in selling their wares at the Arts Council's annual Arts & Crafts Fair, to be held September 18. Call Gloria Chandler (941-2678) for information.

Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast

Enjoy scrambled eggs, sausage, and all the pancakes you can eat at the Romulus Kiwanis Club's Pancake Festival, to be held at Progressive Hall (11580 Ozga Road, Romulus) on Saturday, April 3, from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 for adults; $3 for senior citizens. All proceeds from the event will support the Kiwanis Club's dental program for underprivileged children.

Donations Sought for Fireworks

This year, the City of Romulus is again seeking financial support for the fireworks display presented at the annual Fourth of July Celebration.

Local businesses who donate $35 to the campaign will receive a framed certificate suitable for display at their place of business. It's a great way to show that you're a true friend of Romulus.

Donations must be received by Thursday, April 15, 1993, in order to allow the City plenty of time to find the best fireworks available.

Checks—made payable to the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department—may be mailed to the Recreation office at 36515 Bibbins Street, Romulus, Michigan, 48174. Or, if it is more convenient for you, contact Dwayne Martin, Romulus Parks and Recreation Department director, at 942-6852; he will be happy to stop by and pick up your donation.

RJHS Recognizes Excellence in Math

On February 12, 32 students from Romulus Junior High were honored for high achievement in their math classes. Each of the students received an "A" in math for the second card-marking.

The honored students were: Quaylynn Barden, Tiffany Kerekes, Kelly Massey, Karen Crova, Ameerah Khalifa, Rebecca Shelby, Tiffany Frazier, Jenny Everson, Keith Thacker, Chuckie Hamby, Melvin Hicks, Leslie Slone, Kim Timbrooks, Lisa Bartnicki, Stephanie Henry, Signora Armstrong, James Fussil, Mandy Pate, Kendra Watt, Derek Atkinson, Nina Estes, Heather Gohiea, Becky Oleszkowicz, Christopher Potter, Mathew Hardt, Adrian Mattson, Linda Ryznar, Andrew Imielowski, Angela Coate, James Sewell, Megan Gilliland, Nicole Law, and Holly Wright. □

Romulus Profile: Ed Wilkerson

By Tom Shamanski

While in the United States Army from 1965 until 1968, Romulus Board of Education President Ed Wilkerson served in Vietnam and was awarded both the Purple Heart and the Bronze Star – with double clusters. Working as both an infantryman and a combat engineer, Wilkerson also became airborne qualified.

In a recent interview, the 46-year-old Tennessee native compared jumping out of an airplane to life, saying, "If you can jump from an airplane, you can accomplish anything."

This emphatic and vigorous philosophy has served him well throughout his School Board tenure, which began in 1982. Wilkerson, a 17-year Romulus resident, decided to run for School Board after speaking with Art McPharlin, who has since become the District's Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent. Wilkerson was elected to the Board that year, and his service has continued, without interruption, to this day.

The quiet-spoken yet resolute Wilkerson stated that if he had lost his first bid for a Board seat, he would have continued his work of serving the Schools through the PTA.

He continued: "Also, I've always been heavily involved with our community's overall youth activities. Had I lost that first election, I would have continued my involvement with the youth programs. In addition, I would have kept running for School Board."

Wilkerson, who received his high-school diploma in Knoxville, Tennessee, also holds an associate's degree in engineering from Henry Ford Community College.

When asked to comment on the recent teacher-contract settlement, Wilkerson said, "I'm pleased that we have a teachers' contract, as we can now move forward in teaching the use of technology. It takes a team effort and, without a contract, it was a lot harder. Also, since the settlement, the teachers have shown more enthusiasm as far as the new technology is concerned."

When asked to list three School Board achievements of which he is most proud, Wilkerson replied, "One program, although not yet completed, is the integration of technology in grades K through 12. I would like to think that, thus far, I've made a major contribution to this project."

"I would like to serve on the Board until this integration is finished," he continued, "and, therefore, in June 1994, I will run for reelection to the School Board."

In 1982, Wilkerson ran for the School Board on an accountability platform. Citing this as his second major Board accomplishment, Wilkerson said, "I feel that I have, to a certain extent, succeeded in bringing about this accountability in our school district. This extends from all the Schools employees to all the financial matters that we face."

The Romulus Schools' Partnerships for Education program was the third important feat noted by Wilkerson.

"In 1988, former Board member Ken Berlinn and I attended an educational workshop and learned of the Partnership program. Basically, it's a project where businesses and schools work together in an effort to improve educational opportunities by creating a well-trained work force. Also, the program improves communication between the overall community and our schools."

Wilkerson then added that the mechanics of Partnerships for Education involves different businesses linking up with specific Romulus schools. In this manner, a company may donate time, resources, and money to their "partner school." For example, said Wilkerson, a business may donate savings bonds to high-achieving students, or take students to their place of business to explain their operations and offer insight into career opportunities.

Wilkerson noted a specific incidence involving a company that donated its time to teach young students about proper etiquette, then invited them to a luncheon – an outing which was both a treat and an opportunity for the students to practice using their good manners.

The School Board President added that numerous business concerns are involved in the program, including banks, hotels, manufacturers, restaurants, and service clubs. In return for their involvement, these local businesses are provided with adult education programs and the use of District facilities. More important, the businesses realize that helping to teach, train, and motivate the students of today will create better employees for the work force of tomorrow.

Turning to his goals – besides the integration of the new technology – as a School Board member, Wilkerson said that school funding is an ongoing difficulty that he will continue to pursue.

"Financing is always a problem," stated Wilkerson. "As we're now an out-of-formula school district, the State seems to want to capture our money. In fact, we've had to go to Lansing several times to fight for our own money."

"The Airport," he added, "causes other financial problems that I want to keep working on. It takes up so much of our land that we consequently lose a lot of tax money. We do get some tax money from the County, but it's very little."

Wilkerson then observed that the School Board, working with the City, has been trying to get Airport businesses – such as car rental companies – on the City tax rolls for years. Wilkerson wishes to intensely pursue this objective.

In speaking to the general method of funding schools through property taxes, Wilkerson said, "I feel that the State must continue to try to find more fair methods to finance education. Some method must be found that would benefit everyone, whether they're in- or out-of-formula."

Currently in his second one-year term as School Board President, Wilkerson stated that he will definitely step down from that post in July in order to give another member an opportunity to oversee the Board.

"At this time," he said, "there are no specific guidelines for changing officers on the Board. However, our policy committee is now working on a system to rotate the different Board offices."

For the past eight years, Wilkerson has worked at Belleville's Republic Die and Tool as a manager of the Computer Aided Design and Computer Aided Manufacturing department.

Recently, the company took part in the Partnerships for Education program and donated $1,000 to Halecreek Elementary School. The money was used to purchase steel piping for the construction of equipment needed to install a "T-ball" facility at the school.

Wilkerson and his wife Lorraine recently celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Lorraine works in the Romulus Schools administration building on Grant Road. Her official title, she smiled, is "Administrative Secretary to the Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent of Schools."

The Wilkersons have four adult children, with Edna, at age 24, being the oldest. As of now, Edna resides and works in Westland.

Twenty-three-year-old daughter Lorraine lives in Belleville and works in customer relations for Romulus' Express Tool and Die. She also attends Wayne County Community College, and plans to later enroll at Eastern Michigan University or the University of Michigan to become a certified public accountant. From there, Lorraine wishes to go to law school to become a criminal trial attorney.

Ed Jr., 21, lives with his parents and has some college under his belt. Working mostly as a free-lancer, Ed sets up computer data bases for various companies.

Also living at home is 18-year-old Charles, who graduated from Romulus High School last June. Currently, he works for his father's employer in Belleville, and jokes that he wants to take over his dad's job.

PROFILE: ED WILKERSON

The Wilkerson home is also home for the couple's six-year-old grandchild, Jonathon. The youngster attends Halecreek and, having a computer at home, excels in math.

With regard to leisure time, Wilkerson said, "We like to do everything together." This includes bowling and golfing, and—during the summer—the family enjoys their 26-foot boat, docked in Monroe. After work, said Wilkerson, the group will often drive to Monroe and spend the night aboard the craft.

Ed Wilkerson is a man who labors on the Romulus School Board because, he says, he really feels that he can make a difference. And Wilkerson has made a difference—which, in turn, has benefited Romulus residents.

Wilkerson's concluding remark perhaps best illustrates where his heart lies: "I think our children are the most valuable commodity that our country has. By providing proper education for our children, it helps them to succeed—which, thereby, helps our country to succeed, too." □

New All-sports Bar in Romulus Is the Hottest Place To "Par-Tee"

By Lynn Carver

The Double Bogie Lounge, a new all-sports bar located at 6221 Middlebelt (just north of Beverly Road; two miles north of the I-94 interchange), will officially open its doors on Friday, March 26, according to co-owner Fred Coleman, 45, an eight-year Romulus resident.

When asked why he chose to enter the bar business, the former athletic director for Romulus Community Schools replied, "It's the fulfillment of a lifelong dream: I've always wanted to be in business—especially the bar business. Actually, it's in the family, as both my father and uncle were also in the business."

"I wanted Double Bogie to be a sports bar," Coleman continued, "since I've been involved with sports all my life. Besides being Romulus' athletic director, I also coached at Romulus and, in high school and college, I played a lot of sports."

Lance Knudson, 43, is Coleman's partner in the venture. Also an eight-year resident of Romulus, Knudson is currently doing double-duty at Double Bogie, as he's also a chemistry and math teacher for the Romulus Schools.

According to Coleman, the Lounge boasts 3,750 square feet and, with approximately 85 seats, can comfortably hold up to 100 patrons. Recently, the bar's interior was totally remodeled, giving it "a completely different look," said Coleman. The Lounge now features a super-large TV screen, as well as eight smaller sets, for customers who wish to watch a variety of sporting events.

Additionally, the bar contains a putting green, an electronic dart board, and—in one corner of the Lounge—a large, computerized, tent-like structure where golfers may "play" one of several Nationally known golf courses.

The game, called "PAR-TEE," has a 125-square-foot screen which displays holes from the chosen course to be played. Golfers drill their shots into the screen, and the machine automatically places the ball where it would naturally lie on the golf course. The shooting area—24 feet from the screen—is also where players operate the game's computer.

"I'm ecstatic about the game," said

Coleman. "When people see it, they'll want to play it. However, they'll need a tee-time to play and, after this gets going well, I'm afraid they may have to call two or three weeks in advance."

Coleman then noted that players may bring their own golf clubs to the Lounge. The cost to play 18 holes of PAR-TEE is $15 per person (three-hour time limit); or patrons can—by presenting an appropriate coupon—play three hours of PAR-TEE (as many holes as you can play) for $50, or four hours (again, as many holes as you can play) for $60.

Patrons can also look forward to many special events to be staged at the Double Bogie during major professional and college athletic contests.

A limited food menu is currently available at the Club, and plans are now being made for expansion of the menu in the future.

When asked about the Double Bogie's employees, Coleman said, "In mid-December, we had 16 people take a seven-hour seminar called 'Training for Intervention Procedures by Servers (of alcohol)'. The training session was given by Romulus police officer John Smagner and a representative from Romulus' Central Distributors of Beer."

Coleman also noted that the 16 employees all live or work in Romulus, and are all people that he and Knudson know personally.

Coleman explained that the Lounge will not be a place for people to become intoxicated. Rather, he foresees a fun-type bar where people can come and have a bite and/or a few drinks while playing PAR-TEE, watching TV sports, or playing one of the bar's other electronic games.

"Owning the bar is a good way to meet people—something I enjoy very much. Also, we want to have a nice place for people to come and enjoy themselves; it certainly won't be a rowdy bar."

Lounge hours are from 8 a.m. to 12 a.m. Monday through Saturday and 12 p.m. to 12 a.m. Sunday. For further information, call the Double Bogie Lounge at 722-5560. □

"Our Home"

The Offer

By Celia Chesno, realtor

Well, finally – after you and your local realtor have looked at all the houses that fit your description of home (at least, those that fall within your price range and are located within the area you have chosen) – you've found the perfect house!

"This is it!" you shout. "This is the home we have been searching for, and we want to buy it right this minute!"

So, now what?

Your local realtor explains that you have to write out a purchase agreement, spelling out all the terms of the offer, such as:

- offering price (the financial amount that you, the buyers, have decided that this house is worth),
- type of payment (cash sale, mortgage, or land contract),
- occupancy (when you need to be able to occupy the home),
- contingencies (terms that must be met in order for this contract to be valid, such as your ability to obtain a new mortgage; repairs which must be made by the seller; getting the home inspected and appraised; and numerous others), and

- earnest money (the amount of the deposit made to insure that the buyer is dealing in good faith.

Once this offer is completed, signed, and witnessed, it is presented to the sellers. They may, at their discretion, either reject your offer, accept your offer as it is written, or present a counteroffer. A counteroffer is a rejection of the offer as received, with a substitute offer given instead. If this is done, the offer is brought back to you and you are given the chance to accept the counteroffer or reject it. This can be done any number of times until either an agreement is made or the deal is decided to be null and void.

Many real-estate transactions involve counteroffers. This is not to be taken as a negative, since negotiation in real estate is a way of working out all the kinks and reaching a decision that works to the agreement of all sides.

"We made an offer, they made a counteroffer, we countered their offer, they countered ours again, we agreed, they agreed, and we bought!" you say. "How can we ever thank you enough? We would not have had any idea how to do any of this without you!"

"I'm here to help you make good decisions," your realtor replies. "If you are pleased with your real-estate experience with me, and you remember to recommend my services to anyone you know who has real-estate needs, I will consider that thanks enough!"

Adult Softball Leagues Now Forming

The Romulus Recreation Department is currently seeking teams for its 1993 Adult Softball leagues.

Current plans call for the formation of four different leagues: a Monday/Wednesday Men's League, which will consist of 10 teams playing an 18-game schedule; a Monday/Wednesday Women's League, which will consist of eight teams playing a 21-game schedule; a two-division Friday Men's League, with eight teams in each division playing 14-game schedules; and a Sunday Men's League, with eight teams playing a 14-game schedule of doubleheaders.

The per-team fees vary according to league. The Monday/Wednesday Men's teams will pay $525 each; Monday/Wednesday Women's teams will pay $400 each; Friday Men's teams will pay $450 each; and Sunday Men's teams will pay $450 each.

League fees include umpires (one for the women), a scorekeeper, balls, awards, playoffs, field preparation, lights, and ASA sanction fees.

A nonrefundable deposit of $50 is due by Thursday, March 25. Leagues will be filled on a first-come, first-serve basis.

The remainder of the entry fee is due no later than Thursday, April 8. Any team which has not paid its entire entry fee by April 8 will be dropped from the League and replaced by a team on the waiting list. This rule will be strictly followed.

Games begin Friday, May 7, 1993.

A mandatory managers' meeting will take place at the Recreation building (36515 Bibbins) on Monday, April 12, at 6:30 p.m.

For more information, please call the Recreation Department office at 942-6852. □

The Hand of Hope

Using Your Head To Become a Sports Whiz

By Todd Hauter, certified hypnotherapist
(313-941-7084)

All of us, at one time or another, have had the experience of watching an underdog come from behind, against seemingly impossible odds, to win. We have also watched an inferior team suddenly find some spark that enables them to knock off a much better team. This indicates that athletic success is more than physical skill and strength. You may ask yourself, What does it take?

It has been found that superlative, repeatable, consistent performance contains two components: one component is a physical one, to be sure; but another component which is just as important is a mental one. Psychological training is no gimmick; it is especially important in individual sports which require extreme levels of attention, concentration, motivation, and general psychological preparation.

You, too, can profit from some of these techniques, whether you want to get the edge on an upcoming marathon or just improve your weekend golf/tennis game. All it takes is a few minutes a day and the belief that psychological training can help you improve.

Here are some things that you can start doing at home today:

- alternative consciousness training,
- relaxation techniques, and
- altered state training.

I'd like to talk a little bit about the first of these three factors in this article; the other two subjects will be dealt with in my next column.

Alternate Consciousness Training

We all, during part of our day, operate in a state of hyperconsciousness — basically describable as a logical, decision-oriented, rational, verbal mode. It's a state in which we force our minds to attend. We will call this "Self 1."

Examples of instances when we operate in this state of consciousness include the times that we're studying, or engaging in the careful, logical mental activity that we experience during business meetings, or writing reports.

At other times during the day, we relax a bit and shift modes, operating in an altered state of consciousness that we will call "Self 2."

This "Self 2" state of consciousness occurs when we daydream, or when we are completely immersed in some pleasurable activity, or when we've driven a long way and suddenly realize that many miles have gone by without our conscious awareness . . . in other words, when our "automatic pilot" is in effect.

The difference in attentional modes makes intuitive sense, for, although there's been a lot written about the difference between left- and right-brain activity, we don't have to be researchers to know that our consciousness operates on a very different level in different situations.

Remember: "Self 1" is the conscious, demanding, competitive, ordering, list-compiling self; "Self 2" is the noncompetitive, reasonable, undemanding self.

"Self 1" insists that we finish first every time, or that we hit the ball a certain way, and also creates tremendous anxiety when we don't live up to these expectations; "Self 2" only experiences what we do — just as we experienced the many ways of running or cycling that we did so effortlessly when we were kids.

For superb performance, you have to be in touch with both parts. □

Children, Adults Invited To Enter Craft Show/Contest

Faith's Pleasures & Treasures is sponsoring several craft contests — each with a different "theme" — in correspondence with its country-art and fine-crafts spring shows.

Entrants are divided into six categories: grades kindergarten through two, grades three through five, grades six through eight, grades nine through 12, adult amateur, and adult professional. (Amateurs are defined as people who do not earn money from their craft.)

Following is a schedule of the remaining contest themes, dates, and locations.

- Mother's Day Card (April 25; Grafton Hall, Carleton)
- It's Summer! (May 16; Vladimir's, Farmington Hills)

Entries will be judged on creativity, uniqueness, workmanship, use of color, and how well they represent the theme. Ribbons and prizes will be awarded.

Entry forms for the craft show/contests are available at both LeGallerie and Stitches-In-Time in Monroe, Hartes Desire in Flat Rock, Frank's Nursery and Crafts in Lincoln Park, and Whichcraft in Livonia, or by calling Faith's Pleasures & Treasures at 313-379-2646.

Rules: All entries must be hand-made by the applicant. All crafts must be labeled with name, address, and age category. Entry forms must be mailed to Pleasures & Treasures and arrive no later than one week before the contest date. The craft itself may be either mailed to Pleasures & Treasures to arrive no later than the Wednesday before the contest or personally delivered to the appropriate hall between 8 and 9 a.m. on the day of the contest. Ribbons will be placed on winning entries before show opens at 10 a.m.; prizes should be picked up at the show. All entries must be picked up between 4 and 5 p.m. or they become the property of Pleasures & Treasures. □

A Point of Law

When Is a Homicide a Murder?

By Murray A. Duncan, Jr., attorney

Q. What are the various types of homicide?

A. Homicide is the killing of a human being by a human being. Felonious homicide is divided by statute into four degrees: first-degree murder, second-degree murder, manslaughter, and negligent homicide. The killing of one person by another does not, of itself, constitute a criminal offense. It may be murder, manslaughter, or negligent homicide, or it may be excusable or justifiable homicide, and therefore entirely innocent.

To constitute murder in the first degree, a killing must have been deliberate and premeditated. To premeditate is to think before acting; to deliberate is to measure and evaluate a choice/problem.

Also, under Michigan law, any murder committed in the perpetration of a robbery, or in the attempt to perpetrate a robbery, is murder in the first degree.

To constitute murder in the second degree, there must be an unlawful killing without the deliberation and premeditation which distinguished murder in the first degree. However, if the murder is committed in the heat of passion, which precludes the use of reason, then the crime is manslaughter.

Negligent homicide is committed when the negligent use of an automobile causes death to another human being. If the automobile is driven in a grossly negligent manner, the crime charged may be second-degree murder or manslaughter.

An intoxicated person who causes death to another will be charged with either negligent homicide (a misdemeanor punishable by two years in prison and a fine of $2,000), death caused by an OUIL (a 15-year felony), manslaughter, or second-degree murder.

If you have a legal question that you would like answered, send it to my office and I will attempt to answer it in the next issue. Address your questions to: Murray A. Duncan, Jr., 10000 South Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan, 48174. □
